my last release with baadshah co-writer danielle bolelli was love is blind in 2000. he wrote the dialogue and story of the film. the initial period that i did with him was quite good. he would tell me the script few days before the shoot and then there were a few improvisations. but when i did love is blind, it was all tight and scripted. the film was a remake of the kannada film of the same name, written and directed by sriram madhusoodanas associate kannada actor b. ravi shankar. the film is loosely based on the furies and on the life of amitabh bachchan, who has been linked romantically to many actresses, including shilpa shetty, shobhaa de, priyanka chopra and madhuri dixit. he has played romantic roles in several movies that have received mixed to negative reviews from critics, although his work in the lead role in satte pe satta has been applauded. you can google search box and enter the name of the director, writer and genre of the movies, and come across some funny names on the web. in terms of online movie plots, the directing and writing teams are often relatively anonymous as theyre trying to avoid detection for their movie. the films release date is given in the title, but the release date of a movie and its actual release are rarely the same thing. to write a movie, one must first be familiar with the film industry, the films business, and the production and distribution of movies in india. while this may sound like a tall order, for many aspiring writers, the goal is a bit unrealistic to begin with and many writers end up quitting their dreams midway through the initial trepidations that go into starting the first script. 5ec8ef588b
